Solutions That Stick!

Closing Out the Year- 2021

As 2021 ends, we would like to thank all our valued customers for sticking by us this year. We know how difficult it has been dealing with the never-ending price increases, extended lead times, and supply shortages. We would love to sit here and tell you that 2022 will be better, but evidence suggests these trends will continue throughout much of 2022.

Custom materials right now can take up to 6-7+ weeks to receive. Thermal Transfer material continues to be in limited supply and may take longer than usual to get. Some Direct Thermal material is also in short supply. (Note: Uncoated direct thermal has not been impacted quite as hard, so please check with us if that might be an option in your application.)

Please order as far as in advance as possible. If you run into a situation where you need labels right away, we will do our best to help. We are buying up all the material we can get our hands on. Be aware that these kinds of solutions tend to be more costly. Our best advice is to have regular conversations with your customers about how long things take now and make sure you order well in advance.

We do have some positive news to share with you. We are excited to announce that we do have new digital finishing equipment arriving this week. This will give us added capacity and help to improve lead times for digitally printed jobs. We will have more to come on this next month.

While the road ahead might be paved with many challenges, we are committed to doing everything we can to meet your label needs. 2021 marks McCourt's 125th Anniversary and we have weathered many storms over this past century+. We are extremely grateful for the trust you place in us to be your label experts and we wish you all a joyous holiday season with your loved ones and a prosperous New Year.
